Malden Girl Routs Prowler In Bedroom

Seized by a prowler who broke into her bedroom, 14-year-old Mary Keddy of Crescent avenue, Malden, courageously fought off her assailant early today.

Her nightgown was badly torn in the struggle.

As she defended herself, kicking, biting and scratching, her three younger sisters, Barbara, 11, Catherine, ten, and Geraldine, six, were awakened by her screams.

Running to Mary's aid, they struck and pulled at the prowler, trying to loosen his grip on her.

Badly worsted in his battle with the children, who were alone in the house, Mary's assailant broke away and fled.

He left the house by a rear door and made for nearby woods, closely pursued by a posse of enraged neighbors.

Aroused by the screams and up

Spohrer Charge Hurled at Probe

Alfred "Al" Spohrer, former Boston Braves catcher, induced a woman unemployment compensation recipient to endorse two checks, and he subsequently received the cash, it was charged today at the legislative probe into Unemployment Compensation Commission "gift jobs."

Spohrer is now superintendent of the East Boston office of the commission.

In his own testimony the former baseball player said that he frequently had recipients endorse checks sent to them in overpayment of the compensation to which they were entitled.

It was easier, Spohrer declared, to send the refunds back to the main office in cash.

Josephina P. Grano of Chelsea street, East Boston, said she received two checks for $11 each in overpayment and was notified to return the checks.

She and Josephina Marino of Liverpool street, East Boston,

AL SPOHRER
Angry at Job Quiz

WASHINGTON, July 28 (INS)—Mayor Tobin of Boston was given another tongue-lashing today by Secretary of Interior Harold L. Ickes for "strutting on the stage of politics" in connection with a Public Works Administration grant to the New England city.

Because of Mayor Tobin's activities, Ickes, speaking as PWA administrator, said three PWA representatives had been placed on the staff of WPA Administrator Harry L. Hopkins to keep municipal officials from "shopping around" for federal relief funds.

Referring angrily to an announcement by Mayor Tobin "with much publicity" that he had rejected a PWA grant to help finance a new city hall because he could get WPA to pay for it all, Ickes said:

"We didn't make Boston file this application. The city had money to match federal PWA funds, but instead of going ahead with the project Mayor Tobin kicks us in the face."

Tobin rejected a grant of $1,125,000 from PWA for the $2,500,000 building.

Ickes said the PWA had asked Boston officials twice recently whether they wanted to proceed with the City Hall project, but had failed to receive any reply.

He termed Tobin's action "discourteous," adding "the mayor seems to have fallen between two stools."

MANSFIELD'S PLAN

Asked if there was any possibility Boston would obtain the funds from the Works Progress Administration, Ickes said he had not heard of any money being allocated by WPA.

Ickes said "Tobin might have got away with this if we had not learned how he was going to economize on behalf of the city of Boston at the expense of the federal government."

The Boston City Hall project originally was requested by former Mayor Frederick W. Mansfield, who in his application described the City Hall as "dangerous, antiquated, and inadequate."

Ickes said he "believed the Boston city government was a continuing thing, not dependent on one individual official."

Malden Auto Thieves Escape

Confronted by two police officers with drawn guns, Malden auto thieves, in a stolen car, roared the machine across a sidewalk and lawn and escaped in a hail of bullets today.

The stolen auto had been left for a short time in Malden square by its owner, Dr. Frederick O. Berg of Washington street, Malden.

Finding it missing, he gave the alarm.

Patrolmen Patrick Guilfoyle and Joseph Mancini gave chase in a police cruising car.

Overtaking the alleged thieves, in Highland avenue, Malden, the officers forced the stolen machine to the curb, then approached it on foot.

The thieves stepped suddenly on the gas.

Flee Flood In Dedham

Rising waters in the Riverdale section of Dedham today forced several families to evacuate homes on Violet and Goar avenues as the peak of the flood in the Concord, Sudbury and Neponset rivers threatening other sections of the metropolitan area was believed to have been passed.

Dedham health authorities have already begun to chlorinate drinking water for its residents, and town engineers have set close watch on Maverick bridge, crossing Mother Brook, fearing the swirling Charles River may momentarily rip it from its foundations.

All entrances and exits to the town on the northern side have been cut off by the encroaching waters, while motorists approaching by way of the Veterans of Foreign Wars highway have been forced to drive in single line because of an overflow into that thoroughfare.

A crew of workers was erecting bulwarks at the plant of the Boston Envelope Company in Riverdale to stem the onrushing Charles, which already has forced its way into the lower floors of the factory.

Danger from floating debris carried in the swift current impelled town authorities to bar bathers from Mother Brook and Community House Beaches.

Boston Boy Dies With 2 in Crash

In a Pennsylvania automobile crash today two youths, one from Dorchester, and an unidentified girl were killed.

Pennsylvania state police said the youths had been identified as Frank J. Choolfaian, 20, of 14 Lithgow street, Dorchester, and Raymond McMahon, 19, of Philadelphia.

The girl was 18 to 20 years old and of light complexion, according to police.

The automobile, which police said was borrowed by Choolfaian from Sooren Pareichan of Philadelphia, struck a steel abutment on the Bristol Pike.

30 Sit-Downers On Third Day

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 28—Thirty tired but determined women today began their third day of a sit down-strike in the Rochambeau Worsted Company, while plant officials just as determined, announced there would be no settlement as long as the plant was occupied.

More than 200 persons were thrown out of work when the management shut down because of sit-down activities.

Accuser in Jobs Probe

TELLS OF CHECKS—Mrs. Josephina P. Grano of East Boston is sworn before testifying that when she brought two $11 checks to Unemployment Compensation Commission, Al Spohrer induced her to endorse them.

Polygamy Charged To Malden Man

Alleging that he married an attractive young Malden woman woman while already having an undivorced wife in West Roxbury, Malden police today arested Arthur R. Volk, 31, of Swain's Pond avenue, Malden.

He was charged with polygamy. Volk's Malden "wife," police said, was now an employe of a Malden square restaurant.

She is allegedly the mother of two children. Volk is the father, accordin gto police.

Police said Volk told them his first wife's maiden name was Mitchell and that her most recent address was in Colberg avenue, West Roxbury.

Holding Volk for questioning in another case, police refused to admit him to bail.

40 Killed, 250 Hurt In Burma Rioting

RANGOON, Burma, July 28 (AP)—Forty persons were killed and more than 250 injured today in communal rioting. Shops were looted and burned and prisoners fled the jail as violence raged.

El Car, 2 Autos In Triple Crash

More than a score of trolley passengers were shaken up, two automobiles were crushed into one twisted unit and their two operators were slightly injured today in a triple crash at Brighton.

The unusual accident occurred at Washington and Lake streets when a Brighton-Newton-Watertown two-car trolley collided with a sedan operated by Charles H. McGovern, 43, of Hamilton Beach, Wareham.

McGovern's machine was pushed against a sedan operated by William T. Fuller, 43, of North street, Georgetown, and then the two cars were pressed together as they bumped along the roadway.

Al Spohrer Under Fire

went to the office and saw Spohrer, who asked that Miss Grano endorse the checks, she testified. Then he asked, she said, if she would og out and cash them, returning the money to him, but she told him she was too tired.

TELLS OF REMARK

Miss Marino corroborated her friend's testimony and added that the date was last June 1. She remembered the date, she claimed, because she remarked to Spohrer:

"What's the matter; you need the money for the holiday tomorrow?"

Leo D'Ambrosia of Bennington street, East Boston, testified that he made cash refunds for compensation overpayments, one one occasion paying $24 in cash and on another $20 in cash, but Spohrer said he could give no receipts until a total of $54 was paid.

D'Ambrosia testified that at Spohrer's request he cashed four checks, the two endorsed by the Grano woman—which D'Ambrosia also endorsed, he said—and two $15 checks endorsed by a person whose name did not come out at the hearing.

The witness said it cost him a nickel each to cash the four checks at a tobacco store in Maverick square, East Boseton, about June 19, and that he turned over the $52 cash to Spohrer.

"Do you realize that this is a pretty serious charge?" the witness was asked by Attorney Warren Patten, counsel for the special legislative commission.

"I tell the truth," D'Ambrosia answered.

Abel R. Campbell, paying teller for the UCC and connected with the state treasurer's office, testified that in his opinion it was easier simply to return the overpayment checks to his office for cancellation than to send the amounts in cash.

The witness was sent back to his office to obtain records, and when he returned to the hearing he testified that from May 7 to date, he has received only two cash returns from the East Boston office.

Both, he said, were on May 19, when he received federal postal money orders for $15 each.

Hardly had the probe resumed today after nearly two weeks than Spohrer clashed with Attorney Patten.

"What do you mean—that I steal it?" snapped Spohrer when asked if he had accounted for the overpayment returns to him.

When the hearing resumed Patten made a statement to the commission, in which he said:

"Several people have been into my office with complaints of such a mysterious nature that it seemed necessary to listen to their stories and do something about them.

"I cannot vouch for the truth of the stories they told and I don't know that it is my duty to determine the truth of these stories. I feel, however, that I would be derelict in my duty if I did not present the matter to this commission."

Attorney Patten then had six witnesses, all men, sworn, and Spohrer took the stand.

In some instances, he said, the refunding has been done in part payments, which he holds until the full sum has been received. Then it is turned over to the commission treasurer's office.

"Have you ever given a receipt for the money turned in as a refund and failed to turn the cash in to Treasurer Campbell?" the former baseball player was asked after his flareup.

"No sir," he replied.

After his testimony, Spohrer left the hearing room and returned with his pretty and youthful secretary, Miss Mary Power of Charlestown. She was placed on the witness stand and produced what she said were her records of cash refunds.

A checkup with Aattorney Patten followed, but there was no record of a Grano refund, it was stated.

Among other things, the pretty girl testified, that no less than 10 persons in the East Boston office have keys to the cash drawer in her desk.

She said that Spohrer never had turned over to her, at any time, the sum of $52.

Cahill Blasts Hurley; Relief Tieup Drags On

While political observers today predicted that the deadlock between Governor Hurley and the legislature over opposing work-relief plans would prevail until the September primaries, the verbal battle between him and Republican enemies today took on new vigor.

On the firing line was House Speaker Horace T. Cahill, who declared that the Governor is not fighting for alleviation of unemployment but rather for a "slush fund" to use in his coming campaign for re-election.

CAHILL'S CHARGE

"By vetoing the House measure to send $5,000,000 of their own money back to the cities and towns," declared Speaker Cahill, "it is more clear than ever that the governor's interest in this fight is not to alleviate unemployment but to secure a stranglehold on a 'slush fund' in his personally-controlled state department of public works for the November elections."

Defending the action of the Legislature in refusing to appropriate any additional funds for that department, the Speaker asserted it already has supervision of $27,000,000 for immediate expenditure.

SAYS MONEY IDLE

"Not only has this money appropriated for that department not been put to work to give jobs," continued the House leader, "but there is more than $5,000,000 left over from previous years which has not yet been utilized by the politically-controlled body.

"It is apparent that the governor wants to hoard millions in the department of public works so that, through his executive office, jobs can be passed out for a few weeks just before election. He overlooks the fact that jobs are needed now in cities and towns."

Just We Two Start Life Anew

No Welcome Here!

FAMILY TREK ALL IN VAIN

A round-trip tramping and "thumbing" trek with his wife and family of eight children loomed today for Adjutant John J. Weaver, of the American Rescue Workers, en route to Boston from Baltimore to establish New England headquarters for that organization.

News of the approach of the Weaver caravansary, laden down with household effects piled high on a child's express wagon and encumbered with two baby carriages, recalled to local authorities the ban issued against the American Rescue Workers here several years ago.

At that time, according to the Chamber of Commerce, the office of the attorney-general ousted the organization from Massachusetts.

The Rescue Workers at that time, it was said, occupied New England headquarters on Tremont street, South End, and were in charge of Major B. Entsminger, reputed founder of the organization.

Inquiry at the office of Attorney-General Paul A. Dever revealed that the ban on the American Rescue Workers was still in force and that it was impossible for Weaver to carry out his expressed intention of re-establishing the organization here until the suppression order was quashed.

The Weaver family have been on their trek to Boston from Baltimore for two and a half weeks and last reports said they had left Manchester, Conn.

They said that they had only been given automobile rides for 73 of the nearly 400 miles between the Connecticut town and the southern city.

The "gospel-singing" cortege is expected to arrive in Boston about Sunday.

Granted Divorce Despite 'Mr. X'

With the identity of the mysterious "Mr. X" still hidden, Judge John V. Phelan today in probate court at Salem granted a divorce to Mrs. Anne H. Carlstrom, pretty Lawrence saleswgirl.

Mrs. Carlstrom sued on grounds of cruel and abusive treatment and her husband, John A. Carlstrom, former Lawrence baseball player, contested the suit on his charge that she had been too friendly with a man whose identity the court would not allow to be revealed.

Judge Phelan also granted Mrs. Carlstrom custody of the three daughters—Mary Francis, eight; Geraldine, six, and Kay, three, and ordered Carlstrom to pay $6 a week toward support of the children.

In contesting the suit Carlstrom declared he still loved his wife and blamed his one-time pal, "Mr. X."

8 HURT ON N. Y. 'EL'

NEW YORK, July 28 (INS)—Eight men were injured today, five of them seriously enough to need hospital treatment, when a four-car shuttle train of the Third avenue elevated crashed into a stanchion.

BRIDAL STATUS OF PLANE Still Up in Air

E. L. Von Glatte

PONTIAC, Mich., July 28 (AP) — Edward L. Von Glatte and Miss Jane Webster were honeymooning today at the home of relatives here, unperturbed by a ruling that their marriage by an airplane pilot was not valid.

"We are convinced that the marriage was legal," Von Glatte said. "No second ceremony is planned."

Believing that a transport plane pilot has the same legal status as the master of a ship, the couple had Capt. Richard Bowman, United Airlines pilot, marry them three miles up in the air above Los Angeles Saturday.

Jane Webster

Chief Deputy Counsel Douglas De Coster of Los Angeles informed the county recorder "there is no duty, or authority" to file the marriage certificate of the couple.

In deciding to be married at 15,000 feet altitude, the couple contended such a ceremony would be just as valid as one performed by a ship's captain beyond three miles at sea.

'Hitler Hoax' Boy Killed on Bicycle

CLEVELAND, O., July 28 (INS)—Seven-year-old John Warren, who figured in the news several months ago in connection with the "Hitler-as-a-Baby" photograph hoax, was dead today after a fall from his bicycle.

John Warren

A milk bottle he was carrying broke, and the sharp glass pierced him through the chest, penetrating his heart.

A badly-retouched baby picture, believed by the boy's mother to be that of her son, was circulated widely through the United States as that of Adolf Hitler, German dictator, as a baby.

Girl Stowaway Faces 'Brig'

CRANSTON, R. I., July 28—Ada Ciano, 17-year-old girl whose fifth runaway landed her almost 3000 miles away in England, may rue her wanderlust, it was learned today.

For if she is not sent passenger fare home, she will probably be placed in a "brig" and spend a few days of hard work aboard a British ship as a deportee bound back to America.

Her father, Paul Ciano, wept upon learning where she was.

"I have no money," he said pathetically.

The body of Richard Tinsel, 42-year-old watchmaker, who fell into the flood waters of the Sudbury river, was washed ashore today—100 yards from his home in Shore road, Wayland.

Elephant Gives Up

SOMERSWORTH, N. H., July 28—It looked like a cinch for Democrats today in the city primary next September 13.

Amazed election officials discovered, when they surveyed the nomination papers filed at the deadline for candidates, that not a single Republican had filed. Somersworth has been predominantly Democratic for 35 years.

Pair Win Estate Of Suicide in '04

PAWTUCKET, R. I., July 27 (AP)—On March 31, 1904, Volney W. Billings shot himself to death on a street corner in Knoxville, Tenn.

Today, Probate Judge Lawrence A. Flynn ordered $2527 turned over to Frederick H. Davis of Boston, administrator of the estate, two second cousins, found after a 34-year search, are the heirs.

Hunt Suitor In Slashing

Cruelly slashed on the face and neck, Miss Sarah Cucinotta, 28, of North Russell street, West End, sobbed hysterically today at Massachusetts General Hospital while police sought her rejected suitor, William "Fats" Russo, 32, prison parolee.

Refusal of continued offers of marriage brought the attractive woman knife wounds which may disfigure her for life as she walked along the Esplanade near her home.

In naming Russo as her attacker, she told police she had been cut when she announced, "I don't love you and I can never marry you."

At the same time, police of the Joy street station placed a guard about the victim's mother and sisters.

New Arrests In Poison Alky Probe Due

More than 48 federal agents today were on the trail of a huge poison liquor syndicate operating in Massachusetts and New England, with five arrests already made and many more expected.

Alarmed by analysis of the liquor, Colonel Josiah Reese, chief investigator of the alcohol tax unit of the Internal Revenue Bureau, decided to endanger his probe rather than keep the public in ignorance of the menace.

"This is a matter of life and death," he announced. "The liquor is a denatured product, probably made from rubbing alcohol. We do not yet know the location of the source of supply."

The poisonous products are being produced in stills in and around Boston, agents revealed.

Everett Officials Offer Blood Gifts

Alderman Ambrose T. English and Superintendent of Streets John K. Collins, both of Everett, today volunteered as blood donors at the Whidden Hospital, in that city, for Mrs. John Doherty of Blackstone street, critically ill.

Other Everett residents who responded to the emergency call included the patient's husband, Earl Branden, and Charles Zello.

Everett Tax Rate $38.20, Record High

Mayor Frank E. Lewis today set the Everett 1938 tax rate at $38.20, an increase of $2.60 over 1937, and the highest figure in the history of the city.

He attributed the jump to a rise of $200,000 in local welfare costs.

Wife 'Error' Tipoff Told In Suit

It was somewhat embarrassing, said John F. Bowen, a Boston business man, when he told a woman that George Todd Brady and his wife were stopping at a Boston hotel—only to have the woman reveal that she herself was Mrs. Brady.

In probate court at Salem today, Bowen, a witness for Mrs. Brady, who seeks a divorce on grounds of unfaithfulness, testified that he had seen Brady frequently with the other woman and always understood her to be Mrs. Brady.

Mrs. Hazel Bell Brady is of Rockport and her husband is president of an insulation company in Manchester, N. H.

Jack Judge, Writer Of 'Tipperary,' Dies

LONDON, July 28 (AP)—The man who wrote the famous British war song—"It's a Long Way to Tipperary"—died today in Birmingham, at the age of 60.

He was Jack Judge, a fish salesman who became a vaudeville headliner. His publishers had retired him on a life pension, saying he had written "a soldier's anthem which actually helped win the war."

roar in the Keddy home, the neighbors, knowing the Keddy children were alone, turned out in force.

Some brought guns, others dogs. Few stopped to dress. One man carried a rope and lynching talk was heard.

DESCRIBES PROWLER

Mary Keddy said the prowler called her by name, although she did not recognize him. She described him as 25 years old, with brown hair and a small moustache.

He wore a blue sport shirt, open at the neck, Mary told police. She said she thought she had scratched him badly enough to leave marks on his face, arms and neck.

She herself was bruised about the arms, shoulders and chest, but escaped further injury.

PARENTS AWAY

According to police, the Keddy children's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Keddy, had gone to Westville, N. S., where Mrs. Keddy's father was reported seriously ill.

The parents had left 14-year-old Mary to take care of her younger sisters.

All four of the children were taken into the homes of neighbors today, after the battle with the prowler.

Police picked up two suspects. The first was released after Mary Keddy had failed to identify him.

HELD FOR QUESTIONING

The second, a resident of the Keddy neighborhood, was held for questioning at Malden police headquarters.

Describing her struggle with the prowler, Mary Keddy said:

"I woke up and heard somebody tiptoeing in my room.

"I said, 'Who's there?'

"A strange man's voice answered me. 'It's all right Mary,' the voice said.

"I pulled on the light.

"A young man I didn't recognize was standing by my bed. Before I could move, he grabbed at me and tore my nightgown.

"I rolled away and jumped up. He grabbed me again, but I kept kicking and scratching and screaming.

"When he tried to put his hand over my mouth, I bit him.

"My sisters were in a big bed on the other side of the room. They woke up and ran over to help me.

"They pulled at the man and hit him. They screamed too. We all kept screaming.

"The man let go of me and ran out of the room. I heard the back door slam. He must have run out there.

"I don't know how he got into the house. There were screens on all the windows and I went around and locked all the doors before I went to bed."

Boat, 6 Aboard, Returns Safe To Wharf

While police and coast guards were still searching the lower harbor for them, a party of six, including two women, today returned to the Warren avenue wharf in Charlestown from which they had started their trip.

With them were believed to be two couples, one from Everett and the other from Lynn.

The alarm for their safety was spread by relatives when they failed to return after a late evening harbor cruise.

2 Arrested In Insurance Probe

WORCESTER, July 28—Arrest of a Worcester man and his attorney launched today a probe into accident insurance claims made in this area during the last few years.

Held on charges of attempted larceny and conspiracy are Lionel Comtois, 39, of Charles street, and Attorney Aram Garabedian, 32, of West street.

Comtois, according to Detective Captain John Kalagher, has confessed that the supposed accident he had was faked and that the lawyer knew this.

The "injuries' and "abrasions" to Comtois' legs were inflicted deliberately with a rock, Comtois said, according to Kalagher.

The claim against the insurance company is said to have been for $225.

As a result of this case, Clarence D. McKean, manager of the Massachusetts Claim Investigators of Boston, the central investigating bureau, and his assistant, Fred Schmid, arrived today in Worcester and began checking on other accident cases.

President Resumes Fishing

ABOARD CRUISER HOUSTON, July 28 (AP)—President Roosevelt resumed his quest for fish today in the waters of Gardiner's Bay as the Houston anchored off Hood Island, the extreme southeast member of the Galapagos archipelago.

The Houston arrived last night and will remain all day before proceeding to Indefatigable Island, 75 miles away.

The President gave his attention yesterday to work at his desk and supervised sending of supplies to the dozen inhabitants of Charles Island.

Weather conditions continued ideal. Temperatures have ranged from a minimum of 64 degrees to a 76-degree maximum.

2 Men Freed in Jobs Pay Case

WORCESTER, July 28 — Two men, employed, receiving checks from the Unemployment Compensation Commission were found not guilty of larceny today by Judge Frank L. Riley in district court.

Judge Riley found both men guilty of violating the laws of the commission, paced them on probation.

The men were David L. Hamilton of Barre and Walter S. Wood of Oakham.

The case was considered a "test" in a statewide drive against persons who illegally receive checks or who make false statements to get compensation.

Both men pleaded guilty, agreed to make restitution.

ELSIE ROBINSON, writes from the woman's viewpoint, discusses every-day affairs and problems, regularly in the Boston American.

Arrested After Dive Out Window

Defying the guns of four policemen after he allegedly had been trapped looting a store near his home, John F. Barry of Cedar street, Wellesley, dived through a plate glass window in a desperate attempt to escape.

Despite deep cuts on his head and body, Barry led police a quarter-mile chase before he was dropped by a flying tackle and arrested.

He raced along Cedar street, passing his home where his parents were unaware that shots which aroused them had been fired at their son as he left a trail of blood.

The flying tackle capture was made by Patrolman James Gavin.

Barry's arrest came after police received a telephone tip that a burglar was inside a chain grocery store. Barry was booked on a charge of breaking and entering in the night time.

U. S. Tax Rebate For W. R. Hearst

WASHINGTON, July 28 (INS)—An overassessment in income tax amounting to $242,759.02 in favor of William Randolph Hearst for the year 1930 was reported today by the Bureau of Internal Revenue. The bureau stated:

"The overassessment results from a redetermination of the capital gain realized upon the sale of certain securities during the taxable year. After investigating and consideration in the bureau it is determined that the capital gain reported in the return was erroneously overstated."

Rush Cleanup In South End

Eight police officers were making hourly inspections of suspected South End vice resorts today as the district's most drastic cleanup in years got under way.

Spurred by Police Commissioner Timilty's stern threat of an impending shakeup and possible dismissals from the force, officers and men of the South End division declared a no-quarter war on organized vice and racketeering.

At the same time federal agents were also at work in the South End, running down clues which promised to link vice dens there with white slave and dope rings, trafficking throughout New York and New England.

Attention of the federal men was turned to the South End by evidence obtained at a Washington street cafe, recently characterized as a "hell hole" and refused a liquor license.

South End police moved fast today.

Captain Bernard Graham of the Warren avenue police station sent out a newly recruited and enlarged vice squad, with orders that vice resort operators must be "put out of business."

Demanding immediate action, the captain issued a list of suspected vice dens and their alleged proprietreases.

"If you can't get evidence to bring 'em into court, at least see they don't operate," he commanded.

Visits of inspection were made at odd intervals but not less often than once an hour.

Such unremitting surveillance was to be continued, day and night, Captain Graham directed.

Furthermore, every suspected vice resort operator was interviewed by a sergeant or special officer.

"Better move," the officers suggested. "Get out of the district. Today. If you're still here 24 hours from now it'll be just too bad—for you."

Similar instructions were given to several alleged "outside agents" of suspected vice dens.

These agents included two reported to have boasted they were buying "high-up" protection for $600 a month.

Today came information that three suspects were quitting their premises.

A fourth, defiant for a while, finally capitulated and said she'd be moved before tomorrow.

Whitcomb Files For Governor

Richard Whitcomb of Springfield filed papers today as a candidate for the Republican governorship nomination.

He turned over to William N. Hardy, director of the division of elections, at the State House, more than 1600 signatures of registered voters throughout the Commonwealth.

"This is just a start," Whitcomb said. "My supporters are getting other signatures by the thousands.

State Set for Carroll Trial

SOUTH PARIS, Me., July 28—The state, it was announced today, has nearly completed its investigation preparatory to the trial, next Monday, of former Deputy Sheriff Francis M. Carroll, charged with the murder of Dr. James G. Littlefield.

A special panel of 75 talesmen has been summoned for the trial, which is expected to bring curious throngs into the county seat from far places.

Women will be banned, however, from serving on the murder jury, state prosecution officials said.

SAYS HE'S INNOCENT

Meanwhile Carroll continued to insist that he is innocent of any murder, including the murder of Dr. Littlefield, for which Paul N. Dwyer, 18, of South Paris, is now serving life, and the murder of the doctor's wife, to which Dwyer also allegedly confessed.

Dwyer was arrested in North Arlington, N. J., where police were horrified to discover the bodies of Dr. and Mrs. Littlefield stuffed into the car in which the youth had made a six-state "death tour."

Originally arrested on a morals charge involving his daughter Barbara, 18, a friend of Dwyer, Carroll was subsequently indicted for murder.

DWYER'S STORY

This was after Dwyer had written out what he asserted is a "true story" of the macabre night of October 13, 1937, when Dr. Littlefield was slain.

According to this story by Dwyer, the murder was committed by Carroll, with Dwyer present, because the physician had come into possession of facts involving Carroll and his daughter.

Carroll's defense, according to his counsel, Clyde R. Chapman, former attorney general, is unprepared.

"We are not preparing a defense," said Attorney Chapman. "So far as we are concerned, we don't even know that he requires a defense.

WORD AGAINST DWYER'S

"It will be his word against Paul Dwyer's. A man is innocent until he is proved guilty. He is innocent so long as any reasonable doubt of his guilt exists.

"So far as we are concerned this is a case of Carroll's innocence against the, so far as we know, unsupported word of Paul Dwyer, now serving a life sentence for the murder for which he seeks to shift the blame."

HEADS FUND DRIVE

The Rt. Rev. R. J. Haberlin, D. D., vicar general at Boston, today was named chairman of the special gifts committee for the fund raising drive of the Home for Italian Children, which begins Labor Day.

Denies Lewis Link in Ouster

HARRISBURG, Pa., July 28 (AP)—A statement by Major Lynn G. Adams that CIO Chieftain John L. Lewis' opposition cost him his job as head of Pennsylvania's police force brought the cryptic comment today from New Deal Governor George H. Earle.

"It's not worth answering."

Adams, long-time commander of the Pennsylvania state police before that force was merged with the highway patrol a year ago to become the Pennsylvania motor police, wrote the chief executive last night:

I quit because you called me to your office . . . and told me you could not make me commissioner of the new organization of motor police because John L. Lewis wouldn't stand for it."

ENDS LIFE BY SHOT

RUTLAND, Vt., July 28 (AP)—John W. Leonard, 55, of this city, a retired Rutland Railroad engineer, shot and killed himself in the bathroom of his home, Police Officer John Mangan reported today.

An impression of "Deak" Johnson by James Montgomery Flagg

A Name of Fine Traditions since 1788

"DEAK" JOHNSON goes "riding to hounds" whenever the drag season is on. But that doesn't make him a softy or snob. He indulges in this most vigorous of sports in order to keep fit.

"Deak" practices moderation in all things. When he works, the fur flies. But he doesn't OVER-work or OVER-eat. And when he drinks, he drinks with judgment. "Deak" is a man who cares.

Since the days when white wigs were formal instead of white ties, Carstairs has been a name of character to men who care. Such forthright men have always found their own kind of trustworthiness in whiskies sponsored by the Carstairs family.

The same trustworthiness is in the present day Carstairs Whiskey. A blend of fine whiskies, Carstairs is notably rich in flavor, yet light in body. A blend of the highest craftsmanship and character.

3d Term 'Club' For Roosevelt Is Organized

WASHINGTON, July 28 (INS)—Sponsors of the first "Roosevelt for President in 1940" club propose a national organization to develop popular demand for keeping the President in the White House for a third term.

The local club, just organized, is headed by Arthur Clarendon Smith, prominent capital Democrat, and Paul Aiken, former Democratic national committeeman from Kansas. They reported "getting wonderful reaction from the country" to their drive to draft the President for another term.

Asked why the club had been organized, Smith replied:

"Every person, who has joined the club, believes the President should be drafted for a third term. We want the President because we believe he is the only man capable of going through with the job that he started.

"We have no backing from any political party or from any Democrat, high in the government. We are not in the government service, and have no axes to grind. We believe in the man."

Mrs. Carl Dreyfus Aids Y.W.C.A. Camp

Mrs. Dreyfus has chosen as her subject "Serge Koussevitsky, a Personal Portrait," to be given at the home of Mrs. Kenneth Ketchum, in Cohasset, at 11 o'clock today.

Hold Seller Of Slain Man's Auto

NEW YORK, July 28—Sought since the arrest of John Paul Bethell, slayer of a Massachusetts race track gambler, Morris Rosenfeld, 37, Bronx automobile salesman, was arrested today as the intermediary who sold the murder victim's car.

Rosenfeld, wanted as a fugitive from Newark, N. J., where the car was sold, was seized in his home in the Bronx.

Bethell is the husband of the former Margo Lindewal, Park avenue heiress to a chemical fortune. He is now serving a life sentence in Massachusetts for the slaying of Charles Morris, his associate in several gambling enterprises.

Morris was shot to death by Bethelt near Northampton, Mass., who then encased his body in a "cement coffin" and threw it in the Connecticut river in June, 1937, less than 10 days after he married the Lindewal woman.

Amnesia Victim Due Here Today

Mrs. Stephen P. Mahoney of Revere, aged woman suffering from amnesia, was due in Boston today from Newport, Vt., where officials placed her aboard a train with a letter of identification in her hand.

Arriving in Newport from St. Anne de Beaupre, Que., the woman was unable to tell who she was. She was placed in the care of the Sisters of Charity at Sacred Heart Convent, while authorities identified her through a railroad ticket.

CONCENTRATED VITAMIN B¹ in crystalline form is the realization of a 30-year dream by one of America's foremost nutritional scientists. B¹ is now regarded as a highly valuable dietary supplement and has been eloquently characterized by its discoverer in these approximate words—the lack of no other accessory substance leads to so early, so profound and so universal disaster as does the lack of B¹. Described previously as the "mysterious vitamin," "the forgotten vitamin," today vitamin B¹ is being used by doctors in the clinical treatment of sick people more than any other vitamin.

Scientific Journals, Medical Journals, magazines and newspapers, Clinics, Physicians, Laboratories are hailing Concentrated Vitamin B¹ as one of the greatest discoveries in nutritional science.

B¹ DEFICIENCY often RESULTS in
- Impairment of appetite and digestion.
- Loss of weight and vigor.
- Lack of intestinal muscle tone and constipation.
- Heart Disorders.
- Degeneration of the nerves System.
- Atrophy of muscles.
- Extreme deficiency often leads to ulcers and colitis.
- Stunted growth in children.

Special: Vitamin B¹ has been characterized as having a healing action on diseased nerve tissue and its efficiency in treating nerve inflammation associated with chronic alcoholism is spectacular.

Clinics report there is no danger of overdose as system simply takes what is needed and throws off the rest.

(In case of advance stages of certain diseases B¹ is most effective when given in intramuscular or intravenous injections by a physician.)

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—
Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. 25 cents. Stubbornly refuse anything else.

British, French May Pay

Secret Debt Parley

state on the highest authority that it is hoped and believed that Morgenthau will be able to return to Washington with a CONCRETE OFFER FROM BRITAIN AND FRANCE ON THE WAR DEBTS and, moreover, AN AGREEMENT ON THE FUTURE MONETARY POLICY TO BE FOLLOWED BY BRITAIN, FRANCE AND THE UNITED STATES.

Both Willing

Both Britain and France have expressed their willingness to conclude a final settlement on the basis of the principal and not the interest of the original war debts which aggregated $9,286,950,947 — $5,185,730,763 contracted by Britain and $4,101,220,184 by France.

But in the contemplated settlement Britain and France are asking for a REDUCTION of the principal of the original war debts which, if granted, would serve as the new foundation for arranging the repayment.

The proposal thus far discussed involves repayment by means of a GUARANTEED LOAN to be floated in Britain, France and the UNITED STATES.

Advised in fullest detail of the secret talks in which Morgenthau has engaged in Paris, Premier Chamberlain has invited the American Treasury head to come to London.

Chamberlain Plan

Morgenthau has referred this invitation to President Roosevelt and if Roosevelt agrees Morgenthau will come to London.

If Morgenthau gets the President's permission, French Foreign Minister Bonnet may also come to London for three-cornered war debt and monetary discussions.

Chamberlain wants the British and French war debt settlements to be identical in their terms, but separate and individual. That is why three-cornered discussions would be deemed advisable.

But if Roosevelt considers it unwise at present for Morgenthau to proceed to London, the negotiations will be continued through Treasury and diplomatic channels.

Roosevelt is reported to be anxious to bring about a war debt settlement.

Chamberlain and French Premier Edouard Daladier are especially eager to accomplish it as a means of BRINGING THE UNITED STATES ECONOMICALLY AND FINANCIALLY INTO CLOSER COOPERATION WITH EUROPE, bringing VITAL support to Chamberlain's policy of appeasement.

During the Paris talks, Bonnet sounded out Morgenthau on the possibility of American participation in and assistance to the Italian and German credit positions for legitimate trade purposes in line with the Chamberlain-Daladier appeasement aims.

When Chamberlain addressed the House of Commons yesterday, his optimism and reference to America reflected these important moves.

See Reduction

The discussions in Paris envisage a reduction of the war debt principal to enable annual payments to be spread over a number of years and allowing amortization by France and Britain on their loans.

Morgenthau is insisting on a period of French financial stability if the United States is to consider participating in the flotation of any war debt repayment loan.

The talks likewise have touched on the preparation of financial markets for this purpose. Daladier is eager to get the remaining projected French national loans floated and off the money market.

Simon contemplates another British defense loan at the end of the year and is anxious for the market to absorb this and become buoyant again. Roosevelt wants certain American government refinancing cleared.

The equalization funds would be used sympathetically to carry out the financial policies of the three countries to enable this vast loan to be made. The bank rate of the three countries is to be kept uniform and consistent in order to prevent gold speculation by international groups.

Trade Pact Link

The projected Anglo-American trade pact is being linked with the war debt and the new, important agreement on financial policies.

The British point out that if the trade balance remains in favor of the United States, which means gold will flow to America in payment for British purchases of American goods, then little gold will be available or repayment of the war debts unless it is raised with a loan.

Gold maintained by the equalization fund could not be withdrawn for war debt payments without weakening and disrupting the equalization fund.

All these important developments, so vital to the world, and to the United States in particular, are now on the way to immediate culmination.

Good Advice About Constipation!

A doctor would tell you that the best thing to do with any ailment is to get at its cause. If you're constipated, don't fiddle with makeshift remedies. Find out what's giving you the trouble!

Chances are you won't have to look very far, if you eat just the things most people do. Most likely, you don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean just a bit of food. It means a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft, bulky mass in the intestines and helps a bowel movement.

If this is what you lack, your ticket is crisp, crunchy Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast. It contains the intestinal tonic, vitamin B1.

Eat it every day, drink plenty of water and join the "regulars." All-Bran is made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Czechs Ready to Fight Nazis

Set for War, Allies or No, Against Hitler

By H. R. KNICKERBOCKER
International News Staff Correspondent

(Editor's note: Regardless of whether her allies stand by her, Czechoslovakia will fight against any German invasion, H. R. Knickerbocker, noted foreign correspondent, reveals in the following article, fourth in a series of six.)

PRAGUE, July 28.—Czechoslovakia will fight if attacked by Germany. She will fight whether or not she receives again the guarantee of support by France. Even without support from any third power she will be able to hold the German army for probably two months.

During those two months France, Russia and England would inevitably be drawn in. Hence any attack by Germany upon Czechoslovakia [illegible] would [illegible] world war.

[illegible] thoroughly realized here.

The [illegible] Germans are anxious [illegible] be one [illegible] part of the Third Reich. It is not worth [illegible] going to the example of Austria where the standard of living [illegible] the German standard with a few weeks after the conquest.

Because more and more money [illegible] to be found for Germany's armaments, the Austrians were [illegible] called upon to sacrifice as the Germans have sacrificed.

But this has not escaped the Czechs. For [illegible] as they are patriotic and [illegible] resources, they do not intend to be [illegible] by the Reich.

HAVE GUNS AND BUTTER

Czechoslovakia by [illegible] trick, probably [illegible] has managed to have both guns and butter. For more than [illegible] Czechoslovakia, now [illegible] the [illegible] of Central Europe, has kept her civil liberties.

The best contrast is to [illegible] the movements and utterances of Hitler, leader of the German [illegible] to the Prague government.

He is permitted to say what he pleases, and to treat as [illegible] he likes Hitler in Germany.

LIBERTY IS PRECIOUS

"Nobody knows a man as well as his servant, and we have been servants of the Germans for 300 years, and we never intend to be their servants again," explained a Czech manufacturer to me.

The Czechs will not submit even if they have to suffer the fate of Serbia. Previous to my visit to Czechoslovakia during the crisis I traveled [illegible] of Europe, including 2,000 miles [illegible] where Germans could have overrun the whole [illegible] of Central Europe. [illegible] civil liberties.

IS NOW CONVINCED

I am now convinced the Czechs will fight to the last bullet and last man against any German [illegible] and they have their own [illegible] experience under the Austro-Germans, but they have learned [illegible] Nazi [illegible] methods [illegible] action that the [illegible] Austro-German [illegible] was a garland of roses compared to what the modern Nazi equivalent would be.

The Bohemian city, in the world [illegible] wrenched and [illegible] a section of population as Prague with [illegible] Germans.

Hitler-Ridden Jews Combine

BERLIN, July 28 (AP)—Formation of a federation of Jews in Germany which will constitute their official representation in dealings with the Nazi government, was announced today in the weekly Centralverein Zeitung, organ of German Jewry.

The organization includes a Jewish societies under one head. Rabbi Leo Baeck, chief rabbi of Berlin, was named president.

The development comes at a time when an international effort is being made to aid emigration of Jews from this country.

George Brandt, official United States observer, is making a survey of the possibilities. Jews themselves predicted that finding emigration opportunities for them would be an almost insurmountable task.

The new Jewish federation [illegible] a brief appeal in which it stated Jews were entitled to seek [illegible] emigration.

There are some 360,000 to 350,000 Jews in Germany. Brandt, member of the consular service through American sources here is seeking to determine how many want to leave with the aid of the Intergovernmental Refugee Organization now being established in London.

German Jews are skeptical, however, that [illegible] will be carried out. They say that fewer than [illegible] have been able to leave Germany since Hitler assumed [illegible] despite the expenses [illegible] must then go.

Emigration was comparatively easy [illegible] until [illegible] Jews can leave [illegible] with [illegible] Germany [illegible] Jews [illegible] Germany [illegible] Jews [illegible] Germany [illegible] Jews

Racket Serial Starts Monday

Endorsed by the Commercial Crime Commission, a national unit of business men fighting organized rackets, a thrilling serial, "Racket Busters," begins Monday in the Boston Evening American with local authorities today approving its theme.

The serial is the fiction form of the cosmopolitan production of the same name to be released the middle of August.

Composed of leading citizens for the purpose of publicizing widespread rackets, the commission ordered the usual and perhaps unique emphasized cooperation between business men and the law.

Victor Peterson, Boston chief of the Bureau of Investigation in New England warmly approved the general idea. He said:

"The better understanding the general public has of various types of criminals, the easier it becomes for law-enforcing officials to intelligently combat rackets and criminal activities in general."

Petersen called for more cooperation between industrial leaders and citizens and local enforcement officials, pointing out that by this means the underworld could be thoroughly investigated and driven out.

Racket Busters, a 20-part dramatic story of a special prosecutor's battle against racketeers, is based on the book of the same name by Courtney Ryley Cooper, famous writer of Boston and New England life and lore.

The serial will be published in the Boston Evening American every day except Sunday.

"Education of the public through a motion picture of this type, exposing rackets, is the best possible means of curbing their activities.

The Cosmopolitan production is aimed at fake protective organizations. They are plaguing American business, and increasing the cost of business, which reflects in an increased cost of living for consumers."

Walter Abel, Humphrey Bogart, George Brent and Gloria Dickson have the leading roles in "Racket Busters."

New Picture for Sylvia Sidney

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
MOTION PICTURE EDITOR INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE
(Copyright 1938)

EN ROUTE TO NEW YORK, July 28—Good morning. Well, here I am writing a column aboard the Super-Chief, which is going so fast you will have to pardon me if I drop a word here and there.

Sylvia Sidney is stocking to her guns and remaining in New York. She will do a picture "One Third Of A Nation," based on the WPA play and here is the interesting part. Playing opposite her will be Luther Adler, her favorite boy friend and soon to be her husband.

Louella O. Parsons

One reason La Sidney went to England was to discuss with Adler this movie which is to be put on by a new company and directed by Dudley Murphy, who like Miss Sidney is not particularly interested in Hollywood.

I understand an arrangement was made with Walter Wanger whereby she agreed to repay the $40,000 she had drawn in advance on "Algiers." Wonder if she isn't sorry now she didn't do "Algiers," for it's the biggest hit in months.

The name I remembered the name when I heard Mervyn LeRoy had signed Frances Mercedes Rubirosa as leading woman for Robert Taylor in "Three Comrades." And sure enough, who should she turn out to be but the same girl who married Doug Fairbanks Jr. when she brought suit against her parents, protesting her father had used undue influence. The papers had much fun at the time over the case. Now she's Mrs. Rubirosa and her name is Danish. Maybe that's why Mervyn LeRoy thought she was the right one to play the Danish girl in "Comrades."

Hedda Hopper tells me that to take a "test" with Bill Powell made very clear to me just how much the role of Nick Charles in "The Thin Man" will suit him. Bill is the first actor I've seen in a long time who has a real sense of humor about himself. Hedda says Bill's test for "Thin Man" was a scream. Myrna Loy and Bill Powell are the perfect team for the Dashiell Hammett characters.

CHATTER IN HOLLYWOOD: I am reliably informed that Franchot Tone dropped a sizeable chunk of money in a Cadillac when Joel McCrea, Kay Wilkie and pretty soon the whole press bunch but me, at a cocktail party from the beginning. Last week Errol Flynn put $17,000 in a racing stable, proving that our stars frequently need expert advice on how to handle their money. Hear!

A LINE OR TWO: The best friend story was over heard interesting that the best friendship of the month is between "Where's George?" Jerry Colonna and Lupe Velez and Jerry Wayne, CBS announcer. Jerry eats her daily at Columbia and I have a hunch Lupe doesn't mean to if the weight afraid of what Jerry would say keeping them. Wait Mary Pickford leaves for the East she's really saying goodbye to Hollywood for a long time. Bucky Rogers' work keeps him more in the East than on the Coast and Mary wants to spend more time with him in the future than she's been able to in the past. The Sam Goldwyns are fetering her with a farewell party Saturday night . . . With their boat and all their household furnishings sold it looks like Frances Farmer and Leif Erikson are also shaking the Hollywood dust when they return to do another Broadway show this fall.

Snapshots of Hollywood

Everybody must have kissed the bride and had a grand time at the Claire Trevor-Clark Andrews wedding. Clark's gift to Claire was a diamond cross and here's to the groom a gold wrist watch . . . Never removed Glenda Farrell and Randy Scott were a real heart interest as it's not surprising to hear she's stepped out with Arnold Kunody, wonder who was kidding Janet Gaynor when they sent her a large horseshoe of gardenias and orchids to the set with no card. Franchot Tone cracked: "What did you do—win a race?" Mary Astor polishing up on her high C's to do her first screen singing in "Listen Darling"; the Lionel Atwills showing Hollywood night life to Mrs. James Farley, who continues to like our town, sorry I have to miss all the fun Saturday at the annual baseball game between Joe E. Brown's comedians and Dick Powell's leaning men. But I'm banking on the Ritz brothers and Hugh Herbert, Ed Robinson and Charlie Ruggles to go to bat on the laughs for sweet charity; isn't it be enough on this desert without news that the "Dead End" kids tangled all the telephone receivers on wrong hooks in the studio today? Gracie Allen and George Burns leaving out the ships in preparation for their vacation to Honolulu. Jerry Wald and Pat Ellis having laughs at a night club swell of Adrienne Ames to visit the pound and rescue two stray pooches after she'd read they were to be destroyed. That's all for today. See you from Chicago tomorrow.

Boston to See 'Rain' Revival

Willette Kershaw, American actress, who has been appearing successfully in London and Paris, is including Boston in a coast-to-coast tour this fall in a modernized revival of John Colton's tremendously successful "Rain."

This will be Miss Kershaw's first appearance here since her success in "The Crowded Hour" war play by Channing Pollock and Edgar Selwyn.

Miss Kershaw's most recent stage appearance as Sadie Thompson," was at the Cedarhurst Playhouse, on Long Island.

New Features At the Olympia

"Crime School," reformatory school expose starring the "Dead End" kids, with Humphrey Bogart and Gale Page, and "The Toy Wife," with Luise Rainer, twice an Academy Award winner, in the title role of the pampered wife, will open a week's engagement, starting Saturday, on the Washington St. Olympia screen.

BIJOU HAS FEATURES

At Washington street's Bijou Theater, today and tomorrow, Richard Arlen and Mary Astor, in "No Time to Marry" and Jessie Matthews in "Sailing Along" are the screen attractions.

Broadway Productions For Cape Playhouse

By PEGGY DOYLE

DENNIS, July 28—Broadway productions which enjoyed long runs will be shown at the Cape Playhouse here during the next five weeks, most of them with their original stars.

[illegible] stage satellite to join the ranks of the famous summer playhouse is Ina Claire, scintillating blonde comedian who will appear the week of August 22 in Frederic Lonsdale's "Once Is Enough," which played to capacity houses in New York last winter.

She will be supported by four of the original company, John Williams, Vera Lewis, Dorothy Lee and Cyril Ritchard, and by two of the Playhouse's own company, Horace Sheldon and George Graham.

Following Miss Claire's week, the playhouse management announced, Ina Claire will be seen in "Eliza Comes to Stay."

Tears. Reiskes on her latest Hollywood film, "The Young in Heart," have detained her in the picture metropolis.

Her Cape debut has been deferred until August 29, when she will appear in the same play.

Elissa Landi, vivacious screen star who was scheduled to appear in the August 29 engagement, has agreed to "fill in" for Diplette on August 8 with her starring vehicle, "The Lady Has a Heart," which enjoyed a run in Broadway.

On August 15 Rachel Crothers' Stephen and Gil, the Goth sequels in which Gertrude Lawrence entrenched herself more firmly in the stage firmament, will be put on by the Cape players, with Karen Morley, film luminary, in the leading [illegible]

'Algiers' Set For Loews

"Algiers is a fascinating picture," Miss Pelswick commented after the world premiere of "Algiers" at New York's Radio City Music Hall. "A romantic drama, it boast colorful backgrounds, with a mood of sustained suspense, an outstanding cast and a production that's artistic without being arty.

"The story is that of Pepe Le Moko, the notorious French jewel thief, who is safe from the gendarmes so long as he stays within the walls of the Casbah—the native quarter of Algiers. Capture is inevitable once he steps beyond the dead-line, but after two years of his self-imposed exile he meets and falls in love with a glamorous Parisienne, and leaves his refuge to follow her."

'Gaieties of 1938' Heads Gayety Bill

The New Gayety [illegible] stock company features the current week with Jack Mann and "Broadway Interviews" with Eugene and Mary Ann Mack and Ben Farnum, meet-ye-and-the-[illegible] team and Billie [illegible].

"The Adventures of Marco Polo," with Gary Cooper and Basil Rathbone, is [illegible] to be the best picture to be held over for the remainder of the week. The co-feature, "Bulldog Drummond Escapes," features Ray Milland and Joan Bennett.

For Real Prosperity

The Editor Says

The tyranny of words confuses popular understanding of the money problem.

The term inflation has become a bugaboo. It has been made so by those who control the world's circulating media.

Obviously, excessive expansion is dangerous in economies. So is over-nutrition in humanity.

But normal expansion after extensive contraction should not be confused with hazardous inflation.

It is absurd to be worrying about the risk of inflation at this time when the people of the United States have been harmed for a year by cruel deflation.

RUINOUS DEFLATION has gone beyond the money supply into reduced production of goods and curtailed opportunities for employment of millions of citizens.

It has been accompanied by a disappearance of business profits and a lamentable end to the spirit of enterprise.

The national economy has been largely man-made.

It is existing in a state of group disharmony and from absence of goodwill as between partnerships among farmers, factory workers and the vast army of service employees.

Exorbitant taxation is extremely deflationary.

Over-strict banking regulation is deflationary.

Discouragement of business by academic critics and by ignorant politicians is deflationary.

The restriction of industry by one-sided labor legislation is deflationary.

Unemployment—the reduction of hours devoted to actual production—constitutes the very essence of an anti-social deflation.

THE EXPRESSED PURPOSE of the Roosevelt administration now is to reverse the deflationary spiral. This objective is in the national interest and should be encouraged.

But public officials should recognize that restoration of economic health cannot be achieved by monetary stimulants alone.

Simultaneous with the easier money policy there must be a vigorous determination to eliminate CAUSES of the deflation.

That is the best way to attain proper and needed expansion—expansion of hours of labor among the gainfully employed, increase in the physical production of goods, and in increment in commercial activity in the mines.

The goal should be to encourage the freest circulation through the nation's arteries of GOODS AND SERVICES.

Once confidence is restored and government, business and labor [illegible] on harmonious lines the basis will be laid for enduring prosperity.

JOSEPH LEE DAY is observed today for the first time [illegible] United States.

The Political Parade

By GEORGE ROTHWELL BROWN

WASHINGTON July 28

AMERICAN hostility to the breaking of the tradition, established by George Washington, which limits a President to two terms by the national unwritten law, is counted as Mr Roosevelt's principal obstacle in the event he should wish to succeed himself in 1940.

An unprejudiced examination of the facts of history and of the psychology of the people does not sustain this view.

But a far more dangerous menace to a third-term ambition would confront the President in 1940 than any precedent has ever encountered. It is generally lost sight of in Washington political calculations.

THE RISE of the dictatorships of Europe and Asia introduces into purely American politics a new unpopularity.

The United States did not become a world power, in the modern sense, until 1898, when Uncle Sam dived into the Caribbean and came up in the China Sea.

Today our war dead lie buried in ranks by the thousands on European battlefields and America, surrounded by nations armed to the teeth and imbued with hostile philosophies of world conquest, is

In finding for the second third term as he might hang to enforce Mr. Roosevelt would have to bear in mind the whole international picture, of which his own history would be a part.

IN 1860 the United States barely recovering from the Civil War, was still pro-[illegible]. In that year 396 delegates [illegible] to the Republican convention [illegible] nominated Abraham Lincoln.

Grant's [illegible] would have been [illegible] for the events of that year. THIS HEADLINE in 1880 was the first [illegible] Grant's [illegible] third term idea in our history. Jefferson had [illegible] to run again at the expiration of his second term but on November 5, 1807 he declined.

Popular as they were Madison and Monroe left office without a hint that they should seek further honors. Jackson might have broken the tradition if he had said the word—but he scorned to say it.

IN 1875 there was much third-term talk for Grant, but the House of Representatives, and many State legislatures, adopted resolutions against it. Finally Grant wrote a letter declining a third nomination.

Then something happened to the people, and in 1912 Theodore Roosevelt, running for "another cup of coffee," and as an independent polled 4,126,020, or 27.45 per cent., nearly 1,000,000 more than were polled by the Republican Taft. If Roosevelt had defeated Taft for the nomination at the Chicago convention, he might have defeated Wilson.

COOLIDGE took himself out of a third-term contest with his famous "I Do Not Choose to Run," but if he had been drafted, and nominated instead of Hoover, in 1928, who imagines that he, at the top of the bull market, would have been defeated by Al Smith? Those who wish to may think so.

The Brighter Side

The Man Who Never Outgrew His Hat

By DAMON RUNYON

THE FIRST time we ever saw Irving Berlin he was a dapper little chap with delicate features and a patent leather sheen to his black hair and he was accounted the boy wonder of Tin Pan Alley and the whole Island of Manhattan was hooing it to the strains of "Alexander's Ragtime Band."

His life story was already becoming an epic of the big town—newsboy, singing waiter at Nigger Mike's in Chinatown, and at Jimmy Kelly's, and sudden and amazing success as a song writer, though the tale had yet to develop to his rise to the status of millionaire publisher and producer, or to his romance with the daughter of Clarence Mackay, the telegraph magnate, now a long-time happy marriage.

"Alexander's Ragtime Band" was written in 1911 and that was 27 years ago and we can remember that even then fellows along Broadway were saying that Berlin had dumped his whole bag of tricks on the table at once, and where was he going from there?

You could have gotten all kinds of odds from the song writing profession of those days that Irving Berlin would not be writing but songs 27 years from that date—or any other song writer for that matter.

We got to thinking of the 1911 vogue of "Alexander's Ragtime Band" the other evening in a short walk along Broadway we Damon Runyon heard the old familiar tune being played in four or five different spots. At least it was the old tune only it was not so familiar. The musicians were swinging it instead of ragging it, which marks the [illegible] between 1911 and 1938 but the Island of Manhattan is swinging to it just the same.

We rather imagine Irving Berlin will consider this the greatest triumph of his long career—the fact that his first and greatest hit has come back in vogue in its old time popularity after it was supposed to be dead and buried.

A fellow always loves his first born best.

THE RETURN of the song is due to a moving picture called "Alexander's Ragtime Band" after the ditty itself, this picture being a cinematic review of Berlin's song-writing life and embodying most of his great hits. We presume you would call it a cavalcade unless you loathe that word like nearly everyone else.

There is a story to the picture, but the songs are much more important, and more interesting too. It is a splendid production and we only regret that we cannot remember the name of the producer. He is entitled to a medal for properly enshrining the works of one of our favorite figures of the Broadway scene.

We will tell you why Irving Berlin is one of our favorites. He has always been the same. In the days when he was the undisputed monarch of Tin Pan Alley and at an age when he had some juvenile license to get a larger hat, he was a quiet and spoken mannered little fellow of friendly impression and that is the way he is today as one of the most successful men of his profession that ever lived.

IRVING BERLIN'S hair has lost its high polish in favor of a more general gray and life cannot offer him much more in the way of money and success but the triumphs that come to a fellow when styles and tastes seem to be changing and youth is on the wing as you might say, are sweetest of all. Berlin is now enjoying one of the greatest in his experience.

One Word Led to Another

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

WE HAVE tried the five-brand bridge game with spades, diamonds, hearts, clubs and eagles.

THERE is no doubt that Culbertson gave us the bird.

FIRST of all it is impossible to play five different kinds of cards with only four expressions.

IT IS too much of a strain on the prehensile countenance. Let us glance in the rear mirror of events and observe the origin of Contract Bridge, formerly Auction Bridge, Bridge by Marriage and see Whist.

COTTON, in the Compleat Gamester, states that it was called Whist from the silence that must be observed in the play 'Trump is from Triumph. A game called Triumph was played in 1526 and Triumphus Hispanicus in 1541. The Worlde of Wordes published by Giovanni Florio defines Trionfo as the play called Trump or Ruff. Therefore the game called Trump or Triumph was the ancestor of Whist, the mother of Bridge. It was a common alehouse game and Cotton says, "He that can by craft overlook his adversary's game hath a great advantage." Four hundred years ago they recognized that a peek was better than two finesses. Taylor in 1621 calls it Whisk. It was also called Whisk-and-Swabbers.

THERE is no room in summer or winter bridge for the Eagle because it [illegible] mediocrity and compounds stupidity. It involves the pattern of the accident just as the six-lane high-speed way multiplied the number of cars in touring accidents.

Girl About Town by Marjorie McBride

DOGS have a vocabulary, too. A smart pet dog that has been properly raised can understand about 60 words, according to Mrs. Edith Washburne Clarke, president of the Women's Auxiliary of the Massachusetts Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

Marjorie McBride

And it isn't altogether a matter of the inflection or the tone, she is convinced. She believes a dog understands such simple sentences as "Get off the rug . . . Come with me. . . . Let the cat alone . . . Want to go out? . . . Want to go for an auto ride? . . . Stop that!"

Traditionally, the smartest of all dogs is the pet particularly popular French poodle, which has a listening vocabulary of more than 100 words, and can get two and three syllable words.

Mrs. Clarke has been following with keen interest the experiments on dogs being conducted by Wilfred J. Funk, the lexicographer and suggests other animal lovers follow them too.

She says: "If you have been belittling the vocabulary of your own dog keep track of the words he knows, and you will be surprised.

"Even some of the feathered, like the Parrot, understand more of human speech than they get credit for."

Think dogs can't detect the opposite of "no"?

And they don't all know the words, according to Dr. Funk. Mrs. Clarke, naturally, wouldn't know about that.

But she does know, by observation and report from the society agents, that the ordinary roving mongrel can understand 20 words or more.

It is well known among hunting men that good field dogs understand the phrases they need to do their work.

He's piecing it together himself, in odd moments. It will have a Stutz engine . . . Chrysler wheels . . . Chevrolet chassis . . . Studebaker radiator . . . Franklin steering gear . . . the transmission and the rear end will be direct from Ford's. That gives you an idea.

Whether or not he wins any races, the car will be an added attraction on the speedways when Freddie starts his barn-storming tour of the fairs this fall.

Brookline Girls Flock to Nuptials

By BETTY ALDEN

AS BROWN as the proverbial berries many Brookline girls returned from summer resorts yesterday to shower their best wishes on Barbara Clarke and Nelson Hastings married at a late afternoon ceremony in the Church of the Redeemer, Chestnut Hill.

Louise Harding one of the most expert feminine skippers in Buzzards Bay waters packed her sails and other tackle in the boathouse for the day and flew up from Cataumet with her mother to attend the wedding. The garden reception at the Clarke's Brookline home turned out to be almost more fun than work for Louise, who has many of the Island beaux and Vincent Club friends down for the week-end from resorts in Newport, Osterville, Cotuit and Hyannis. She set off her long tan with a bisque and aqua print, with bisque accessories and her mother, Mrs. Frances Harding, who surprised her with peas and fuschia sick flowers tucked in her bed to add an old fashioned touch.

No cooler color scheme could have been chosen for a sultry afternoon than the frosty white costumes Barbara selected for her attendants . . . The gowns of cotton were made with deep girdles of ruffles in the skirts and simple bodices with low square necklines and cap sleeves . . . They carried little bouquets of red geraniums interlarded with feathery sprays of baby's breath and berry studded sheafs from a grandmother's garden tied with white organdie for the bride.

Leslie Clarke, the bride's younger sister, and junior bridesmaid of honor was dressed a bit differently from the seven other attendants in her dress of white muslin dotted with red but her hat and bouquet was similar to the others.

Even the ushers gave a festive and cool appearance to the bridal entourage in white Palm Beach suits with just a touch of color in their red carnation boutonnieres.

Betty Rowe who is spending the summer with her family at Marion was as pretty as a picture in a turquoise and white print as she chatted with Mrs. John Anderson. Lally Farnsworth, who is visiting South Shore socialites . . . Lally's outfit combined a pastel rose print with small white figures and a toast color border with a navy bow.

Other attractive and entertaining wedding guests included Mrs. Homer Ames and her daughter Betty summering at Marion. Peggy Hardwick swimming partner Mrs. Huntington Hardwick; Mr. and Mrs. John Ramsay Jr. and Mrs. Warren Sisson, Mrs. David B. Simmons with her daughter Virginia Vogel, and Jane Megrew who came down from Wilton, N. H., for the afternoon.

Best Way to Can Peaches At Home

By MARTHA LEE

Another request for more information on canning and preserving peaches prompted the following paragraphs today.

When peaches are abundant and prices are right, nothing is finer than a few spiced homemaker pints on hand for the winter months.

The best way to can peaches at home is by the hot water bath method, the same as other fruits. However, do not recommend canning peaches in the oven. For the average person peaches that are home canned are better.

CANNING PEACHES

Peaches may be peeled by dipping a few at a time in boiling water for about 4 to 5 minutes, or until the skins are loosened. This shrinks the fruit slightly and it packs better. Place the peaches at once in the syrup to prevent discoloration. Use a stainless steel knife to cut the peaches in halves or quarters.

Syrup for peaches may be light, medium or heavy depending upon the amount of sugar used. In a heavy syrup there are 2 cups of sugar to 1 gallon of water. A medium syrup has 1½ cups of sugar to 1 gallon of water. A thin syrup is made with each quart of water. Add 1 cup of sugar and bring to a boil. Skim the pan out before using the syrup.

Have the peaches in cold water, a few pieces at a time. Remove from the water to the syrup. Bring to a rapid jumping boil about the peaches. And the water must be boiling over every bit of the time. Pack hot quart glass jars with peaches, packed cold will need about 20 minutes in the boiling water bath. Pint packed cold will need about 15 minutes in the boiling water bath. Pint packed hot need 20 minutes.

Peaches may be canned in the oven in the boiling water bath method. Allow time 30 minutes for firm peaches, 20 minutes for soft ones. Peaches that have been precooked and packed hot will need only 15 minutes in either case no matter whether they are soft or firm.

Peaches lack the necessary acid and pectin to make them suitable for fruits for jelly unless bottled or powdered pectin is used. But they are good in jams and butters. And firm-ripe peaches are ideal for preserving.

PEACH PRESERVES

Any variety of white or yellow peach of good dessert quality will make satisfactory preserves if chosen at the firm-ripe stage.

Wash and pare the peaches. Either leave them whole or cut them in to uniform pieces, such as halves, quarters, or eighths. To each pound of prepared fruit ¾ to 1 pound of sugar. Combine the fruit and the sugar in alternate layers and let stand 6 to 10 hours or overnight before cooking. Or add the sugar and ¼ cup of water for each pound of fruit and cook at once. If either case stir carefully while heating to boiling. Boil rapidly until the syrup is somewhat thick, stirring constantly to prevent burning. Pour at once into hot sterilized jars and seal.

Belts That Are Chic

SIGNIFICANT of fall is this belt . . . inspired by Scotland's royal emblem, which can complement the favorite basic frocks of the coming season which are, fortunately, long on interesting draping and detail, short on doo-dads. Grand for college frocks. This originally-designed "Criterion" belt is one of a group to make you who like pepping up simple frocks glad indeed; others by this designer are in Boston shops; for shopping information, phone Annice Brink, Fashion Editor, LIBerty 4000, week days until five, or write her at the Boston American.

Cocktail Party For Bride

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN

Though I am in my early 20's I haven't really gone any entertaining.

1. Is it proper to give a cocktail party in honor of a young bridal couple? How should one invite the people?

2. What can one do to keep the party from being boring? What sort of entertainment would you suggest?

D.

1. Yes indeed, it is proper and quite the charming thing to do to give a cocktail party in honor of a couple who are about to be married or who have been married. With a little simple planning and with not much expense you can give a most festive and merry party that will gather together your friends and the friends of the couple. Saturday or Sunday afternoon is a good time to plan to have this party, when the men will probably find it more convenient to come.

For this informal kind of party you can telephone the invitations to your guests. Or you can use your visiting-cards. If you have cards, writing the invitation as you would a tea-invitation. Like this:

To meet
Mr and Mrs John Walter
Miss Mary Elizabeth Adams
For
Tuesday, the 14th
Five to seven
Five Center Street

(You may write the occasion as less as is often done, even when it is to be a cocktail party; or as "Cocktails" or as "At Home.")

The good looking note paper on which you write to me would be most appropriate for notes of invitation if you wish to write notes.

2. Your party won't need any special planned entertainment. Guests will be arriving and leaving during the hours you name on your invitation, will be chatting with one another will be having a certainly merry time.

Present for Bride's Mother

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Getting off to a good start in married life is this young man who has the right idea of appreciation, himself with his bride's new mother-in-law.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I expect to be married in about three weeks, and understand that I must give gifts to my ushers and bouquets to the bridesmaids. Is it necessary for me to give a gift to the bride's mother, as I should like to start out on the best of terms with my mother-in-law, and would not like to neglect any of the usual things? GROOM-TO-BE.

No, it isn't necessary to send a gift to the bride's mother, but as you seem to be a diplomat young man anxious to get on the right side of your mother-in-law it would be a tactful and a good way.

Diet Does Not Aid Arthritis

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

[illegible]

There are two general kinds of arthritis—one in which there is an overgrowth of bone around the joints and the other in which there is atrophy of the structures. Most cases that one sees belong to the former group, the common rheumatism of middle age and old age. Usually it affects the bones of the hands, feet with possibly one or two other joints and usually it is not severe or crippling. When it affects the spine, however, it is very severe.

The atrophic type affects younger people and is much more severe. It may finally involve every joint in the body.

In treatment of the bony overgrowth type, the main thing is one or mechanical manipulative treatments of both.

Diet has very little influence on this form of arthritis. My readers are forever writing in to ask me to send them the diet I recommended for arthritis. Now I have never recommended a diet of any kind for arthritis, for I have never seen any diet influence a case either for good or bad.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Seven pamphlets by Dr. Clendening can now be had by sending 10 cents in coin for each and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp to Dr. Logan Clendening in care of this paper. The titles are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

If you would like to learn all about the half-price, one-week special in the cleansing cream which has rejuvenating juices of the water lily, phone Arline Gould, LIBerty 4000, week-days until five, or write her at the Boston American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Handsome Gives Mike New Ring

CHAPTER 33

"Wish couldn't desert us now when we need him so!" she thought out loud.

Mystified, she took the matter up with Larry Regan and tried to appear casual about it.

"Have you seen Wish lately?" she asked one night as they were having dinner at her apartment. "No," grinned Regan, "I think he's fallen off the wagon after 20 years."

"You aren't serious are you?" Mike was really alarmed at the thought.

"Sure! He's celebrating those 11 games I won. You don't know what that meant to the old boy. It sort of vindicated him with Mr. Crisp."

Mike refused to believe any such story. "He wouldn't do that with the Series just three days away!"

Handsome changed the subject with a cheerful, "Guess what I brought you? It's here in my pocket."

Mike felt her heart set up a [illegible] as she held out her hand. Handsome opened the box and took out a ring. When Mike tried to speak he put his hand over her lips. . . Larry Regan did not seem to notice that Mike had slipped off her new star sapphire.

She could not stop thinking of what would happen when he found out about those rabble-rams from Iris. Mike was nobly nervous . . .

Next morning Mike and Handsome went to meet Mr. Regan, sr., at the Grand Central.

That first morning Mike and Handsome took Mr. Regan straight to the apartment she had rented for Wish. He liked it.

"I'll run over and make some coffee, Larry," Mike said. "Have a look-see at the apartment. Bring your father up when he's unpacked." She left Mr. Regan and his son.

Later that morning Mike was amused to hear Handsome's father say, "It's not a bad little apartment, Larry, but it's a damned long way from New York."

"Yes, Dad, but I have a good reason for being here."

"You mean Mr. Regan."

"No. He's not the only reason. I wanted you to know how I feel. I hope you will like her, for you are losing a daughter."

They rode downtown to Mike's apartment, where she was busy with the coffee. Handsome was in the other room showing Mr. Regan all the after-the-war souvenirs of the Great War in the Pacific.

Mr. Regan went to the apartment to meet Wish's future husband. Mike found that out later.

What had Wish been up to? She didn't know. There was a letter from Wish, but it told nothing. Handsome had been kind.

It was over when Mike heard Handsome's voice in the hall.

"Don't worry, Dad. I'm sure Mike will be very happy with me. I feel I owe it to her. But I'm sure I'm going to love her, too. I'm . . . with her . . . I . . . I . . . I

Boston After Dark

By HENRY L. DAILY

Exclusive

Within a very short time you will be reading in the news columns of the Boston, Providence and New York City newspapers the interesting details of a strenuous five month investigation conducted by the Naval Intelligence Department, the Department of Justice and the Intelligence unit of the army, as to the spy problem in New England.

There will be arrests made, but this column is not tipping them over, because of the fact that two persons have been under close surveillance for a month, 24 hours each day.

The investigators picked up leads in Newport, were thence led to Providence and finally wound up in Chatham, Cape Cod.

And the most engrossing exhibit, when the court trial takes place, will be a radio sound detector which the two men under surveillance left behind them in Chatham.

Henry L. Daily

Looking Backwards:

"What has become of all the old picnic groves in Boston?" asked "Bill" Bacon, former police officer and now a resident of Hull.

"I remember the Oakland Gardens at the corner of Columbia road and Blue Hill avenue, Dorchester, before those thoroughfares were widened. It was a beautiful picnic grounds. Folks for miles around would go there of an evening.

"I saw 'Uncle Tom's Cabin' played there by a superb cast. The last show witnessed was Barnum and Bailey's 'Fall of Babylon.' It was a gigantic extravaganza and very spectacular.

"Amory Grove, within the five cent car fare in those days, held thousands of persons on a Sunday. The Appolo Grounds, which was also near Amory Grove, in Roxbury, was similar in nature. Both these spots, I understand, are now dotted with factories, dwellings and schools.

"Take Downer's Landing in Weymouth. That was a famous place for Bostonians to congregate on holidays or week-ends. I can recall when they used to swim horses across the river from the spot upon which now stands the Fore River Shipbuilding Company to the landing. It was Lovell's Grove in the old days. Steamboats also docked there with picnic crowds.

"I guess the only picnic grounds still left within the city limits is Caledonian Grove in West Roxbury, although I haven't been there in years.

"You have an excellent zoo at Franklin Park, but I wonder how many remember the zoo on Boylston street, on the site of the Old Boston Public Library, where the Colonial theater now stands. They were all points of interest in the byegone days."

Radio Star Goes Dramatic:

Glamorous Jane Pickens, selected last year as the best-dressed radio star, has gone dramatic, she does "The Spider" for Neil Skinner at the Wharf Theater in Provincetown and following that a new play in which Blanche Ring, Dorothy Stone and Charles Collins appear.

From the theater to lodging is the route taken by Frances and Ralph Hawkins who are now operating Fairmount Lodge and Cabins at North Conway, N. H. she's the rosy-cheeked lass who graced the Loew's Orpheum [illegible] box office for many years — what's more she does her own cooking.

Celeste Callaghan, chic young Newtonite, now modelling in the Big City with theater prospects for the fall—John Curran, former Columbia praiser now in town on "Mother Carey's Chickens."

John J. McGrath, for over 25 years with the local office of the United States Secret Service, has been made acting agent in charge of the New York office. Pleasing news to his host of friends in the Hub—John Maguire, of Watertown, vice commander of the American Legion, is the candidate most likely to be elected next state deputy commander at the Worcester Convention next month—Congressman John W. McCormack will officially announce his intentions for re-election within a few weeks. He denies he will accept a federal position.

MORE EVIDENCE NEEDED

It is something of a paradox that those who have not believed fully in the market rise are now the chief solace of the harassed bulls. But the fact remains that because they have not been blinded by star dust their views are the clearest. So it is that we while waiting for a protracted reaction to correct the excesses committed in the name of recovery find more evidence is needed before lines can be written to the upturn since June

No Retreat; Greetings; Glenn's Gold and Danno

TO GIVE JOE CRONIN HIS JUST DUE, and nothing more, he is not the type to squeal for help—not even when the Yankees ganged him in their player's tunnel after his field fistics with Jake Powell on May 31. But if, perchance, he did holler for some minor league succor during the Red Sox retreat through the West, it would be just thin, vain echo in an unheeding wilderness. There is no help and, as the old song of desperation goes, "No retreat. No retreat. He must conquer or die who hath no retreat."

It was their first encounter since the fateful day of June 2, 1935, when Babe, then left fielder, vice-president and manager-elect of the Braves, jumped ship and swam ashore splashing profanity at Bill and Judge Fuchs. Neither had wasted love on t'other.

Anglers, Ahoy!

Tautog Bulldog Of Deep

By JOE C. GULL

Most neglected salt water game fish is the scrapper New England Indians called the tautog. Known locally as blackfish or as tautog it is a member of the wrasse family, prized Thanksgiving week as a fresh water bass fights like a bulldog and grows to known maximum weight of 20 pounds. Specimens this size, under the same local name, are found in deep water around rocky ledges. Most of these are thought to hibernate in winter when the water is cold and that is somewhere near the bottom. Some remain active during the cold weather. No proof of either.

The tautog is a bottom-feeder, smaller fish traveling in small schools . . . The fish move in from deep water with the high tide and feed in rocky shallows and around wrecks . . All shell fish from barnacles to lobsters are on the tautog diet . . . In addition to teeth like a dog in larger specimens, the tautog has a set of "grinders" in his throat

WHERE TO CATCH TAUTOG—Best tautog ground in New England is near Monument Beach, best time at May and June and again in early fall. Other good spots are Nonquit, Round Hill, Buzzards Bay, Quick's Hole, Quick Gut, Bass Creek, Cuttyhunk Inner and Middle Ledge when the tide is right. Wild Goat Ledge is excellent ground as is Jamestown Bay. Last Thicket in Fairhaven Bay are the rocks off Wenger Neck. Lyon and Jim Ledge, Fox Rock and Sheep Island Ledge are good spots. . . . A good deal of the tautog water must be reached over the Massachusetts Division of Cape Cod canal.

WHEN TO CATCH TAUTOG—In Buzzards Bay and off the outside of the Cape, the best fishing is early season when the dandelions blossom and the tautog is spawning, and again in the autumn when the fish are schooling. Summer fishing there not so good . . . In Massachusetts Bay the season starts much later (in late May) and gradually improves during the summer until September, best fishing month.

HOW TO CATCH TAUTOG—Clocks [illegible] are not good for tautog. Best fishing is good sized hook, [illegible] strong line. Hooks to suit conditions, heavier where water is deep and current strong, lighter where water is shallow and current slight. Any bait will do, but fiddler crabs, green crabs and clams are the favorites. Some anglers use pieces of lobster meat. Others use sea worms, green crabs and clams as their choice.

(Fishing) Tautog feed only at certain rocks and apparently have a regular beat. So don't go changing around a lot. Anchor as close as is safe and practical to the rocks being fished if you know tautog use there. Then stay there through the tide and be patient. If the fish are "running" they will be along at some stage of the tide . . . Fish your bait on the bottom and in under rock holes. Don't "set" on perch nibbles. Set the hook hard on the unmistakable tautog hinge bite, and don't force your fish.

LEVINSON DEFEATS O'CONNELL

Champion Takes 2 Up Victory

Johnny Levinson's knack of sinking long putts when he needed holes the most today enabled the New England amateur golf champion to put new obstacles over on Joe O'Connell of Nashua, N. H. in their feature match at the Country Club.

Levinson was down after the first six holes played over the 6,000-yard, par-70 course, but O'Connell was 2 up at the 12th when he missed a one-footer for his par four, but after he lost the 13th to another one he missed and won the next three holes.

The two-time champion squared the match for the second time when O'Connell three-putted the long 14th and then captured the 15th and 18th holes with regulation fours to gain his winning margin with a 76 round, five over par.

MONAHAN WINS

Two other former winners followed Levinson into the second round. Courtney Cate of Quincy, the 1934 titleholder, defeated John Stutz of Wollaston 3 and 2 and Joe Batchelder of Salem, the

SAM NEID

[illegible] Lowell 2 and 1.

Joe Monahan of Sandy Beach won out [illegible] in a dressy 6 and 4 victory from Don Sorota of New Britain Golf and Tennis Club champion.

The four of the seven former winners to get the second round were Eddy Grant of Worcester Country Club, 1932 titleholder, who upset the Merrimac Park Mr. 4 and 3; Terama Leonard, veteran Nashua, N. H. golfer who went to the semi-finals last year, wound up with a good 4 victory over Maurice Hall of Lynn Boat.

Joe Lynch of Pine Hill, a semi-finalist in the last national amateur tournament, was a 6 and 5 victor over Carl Nettleship of the Oakley Country Club, Watertown golfer.

[illegible] New Bedford 6 and 4. [illegible] Wollaston defeated Joe Monahan, Sandy Beach, 3 and 2. [illegible] defeated Joe Lynch, Pine Hill, 4 and 3. At Hostak Gives Boxing New Color | Blood Tells in Racing Game

By JACK CONWAY

AL HOSTAK, new middleweight champion of the world as a result of his smashing one-round knockout over Freddy Steele, has the color that this boxing division needs so badly.

Jack Dempsey, who refereed the bout, declared Hostak is one of the greatest hitters in the boxing game, and the nearest thing he has seen to Stanley Ketchel in recent years.

Hostak scored a convincing triumph over Steele as 30,000 of his home town rooters in Seattle cheered. Hostak's best punch, a left hook to the jaw, nailed Steele early in the first round. Hostak showered Steele with punches, and won with an impressive one-round knockout.

Mr Boston

Hostak is a 22-year-old youngster who comes from the brewery district of Seattle. He cast aside his overalls for ring togs. He has punched his ring opponents around as easily as he tossed beer kegs upon trucks.

A powerful, rough, two-fisted youth like Hostak will act as a tonic to the middleweight division which has not had a real champion since Mickey Walker held the championship.

Freddy Steele, who won the title from Baby Risko, has been an unfortunate champion. He received his most severe break when it was discovered he had an injury to his back. This mishap kept him out of the boxing game for six months, and it was a foregone conclusion that the first top fighter who met him would come through with a victory.

Hostak is a tremendous card in Seattle, which is why that city was seleced as the spot for the title bout. It was also in Seattle that Steele stripped Risko of his championship.

The presence of Jack Dempsey in the ring as referee added sparkle and interest to the show.

Blood Lines in Racing Game

BLOOD TELLS in horse racing more than any place else. This was proved once more at the Grand Circuit meeting at Agawam Park when Cotter won to pay $261.80.

When this horse paid this juicy price horse players started looking up his record. They found Cotter is a full brother of the great Tara who was a champion in her time as a three-year-old and also as a four-year old.

Man o' War colts, which include War Admiral and Battleship are usually commanding high estimates at sales.

This is why the wise horse player is so much interested in breeding and ownership.

"The rich man's horse," Herman Conkling, steward at Rockingham Park once told me, "is at least certain of good care and plenty to eat. When you bet on him, you are not backing a hungry, poorly nourished horse."

When Grech and Jones of Agawam, late in the afternoon, the crowd is sure to attract the horses' crowd that has ever witnessed a Grand Circuit program in New England. Undoubtedly is one real wonder horse of the day and one thing that the big gathering will see [illegible] action.

Wilson on Another Streak

There's no stopping Wilson!

The Boston Evening American-Sunday Advertiser king of handicappers came up with five winners at Rockingham yesterday and had second choices win two other races—and that is only part of the story.

All Dave has done in the past five racing days at "Rock" is

1—Pick four daily doubles out of five.

2—Have six top choices win in a row (last two Monday, first four Tuesday).

3—Select at least three winners a day since last Thursday—four on Friday, four on Tuesday and five yesterday.

And, oddly enough while Dave is continuing to pile up his usual lead on all other handicappers, he has had more than his share of second horses win and top horses run second during these past few days.

Yesterday Dave opened with a bang, picking Weebag ($5.80) in the first and Susanna ($6.34) in the second for the $22.36 daily double. Catechism, his second choice, won the third but Dave came up with Saunderstown which returned $8.22. His best bet, Savage Beauty, captured the fifth and paid $3.12. In the sixth, Dave's top two selections ran just reversed when Trouper whipped Pelegrose 2nd, but Wilson clicked in the seventh with

DAVE WILSON

Roman Lady, a $3.10 winner.

But, it's the daily double feat that really has the town talking. On Thursday, Dave just missed. Jessie V. L., his top choice, won the first, but it was Hesse, his second choice, which captured the second.

On Friday the streak started. He had Proud King and Masked Gal. He followed that on Saturday with another winning double, War Streak and Flying Victory. Monday Dave missed when Currants, his second choice, took the opener, although Whippercracker, the top selection, won the second. Tuesday Dave came right back with Sidney Carton and Brain Trust, and picked his fourth double in five days yesterday when Weebag and Susannus proved the winning combination

Oddly enough, Wilson has had many top horses run second and vice versa during this present streak.

There's just no keeping up with Dave Wilson, king of handicappers for the past five years.

Dave leads; others follow. Each year he is right up top, all alone. This year he easily captured honors at the Suffolk meeting, and is a cinch to take honors at Rockingham Win with Wilson. Follow his selections daily in the Boston Evening American and Sunday Advertiser.

The winner probably will meet Little Dado the Filipino who has been doing as well on the coast.

Umpires Ruining Cape Cod League

By FRANK CONWAY

BOURNE, July 28—If officials of the Cape Cod League don't improve their umpiring department pretty quickly, the popular summer circuit is very apt to fold up abruptly.

For the last two season, [illegible] calling the balls and strikes down [illegible] have been having more than [illegible] with [illegible] and [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] of this week.

Already this summer, at least four games have been played under protest because of devil-may-care umpiring. Moreover, there ain't a club in the four team circuit that hasn't sent up a growl about the way the boys in blue have been calling balls and strikes.

The umpires, Tom Whelan, umpire-in-chief; Danny Silva, "Pod" Pierce and Jake Walsh, are perfect gentlemen in every sense of the word. However, this does not mean that they are qualified to make decisions between them which [illegible] all standard baseball [illegible]

STRATEGY WASTED

Yet, Umpire Whelan and his associates have some new rule to of [illegible] every day of the week, or, at least, every time some play happens to take place that they don't fully understand.

For example:

The other day Bourne was playing Orleans with Umpire Whelan behind the plate and Umpire Pierce on the bases.

There was a Bourne runner on first and another on second when Harold Coyne Bourne catcher hit a hot grounder down toward first. The Bourne man on first, peeving a little off the bag noticed the ball was coming directly for him and [illegible] [illegible] the ball [illegible] his legs.

[illegible] strategy resulted in [illegible] first baseman losing sight of the sphere, and so the ball continued on to right field, while the runner on second went around to score, the man on first drew up at third, and the hitter didn't stop until he reached second.

Immediately following the play, Umpire Whelan called "interference by the Bourne runner on first" and, at the same time, ruled the batter out and made the runners go back to their original places on the sacks.

Now, the rule clearly states that a base runner can remain stationary and allow a ball to pass through his legs even if one of the infielders is directly behind him waiting for the ball.

It is pointed out in the rule that the base runner is taking a great chance in staging the play, in that he might be easily struck by the ball, and would, therefore, be automatically out.

This was the case the day the Bourne runner pulled the stunt. He simply permitted the ball to travel through his legs, knowing all the while that he was handicapping the vision of the Orleans first-sacker.

LIABLE TO FOLD

There certainly isn't any rule which allows an umpire to call a batter out when a base-runner commits interference on a play.

To those at the game the play was a clever one by the Bourne [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] tion as the Cape Cod League should explode because of some strange "[illegible]" [illegible]

Still, this is very apt to be the case if the boys in blue don't catch [illegible] [illegible]

7	Pretty Patricia	56	Art Wilson	8-1
5	Mogopo	59	Fred Moore	8-1

TORE AWAY should repeat its last, which was a handy win, with CITIZEN'S STATE the one to beat. PEGGY DAVIS has been freshened up and should be in the money.

SECOND RACE—FUTURITY
Second Half Daily Double

The top one should outbreak its field and win all the way with LADY DETOUR the greatest danger. DEMURE should be in the money.

THIRD RACE—6-16THS MILE

MUZZY, MENTAL TEST, MARFAR

MUZZY, if it breaks at all, should outfoot this bunch with MENTAL TEST a most serious threat. MARFAR has a late rush.

FOURTH RACE—FUTURITY

8	Shady Quill	42	W. B. Hall	8-1

WHITE CROW, apparently a terrific dog, should repeat its last and score, though by no great margin. HELEN O., with the red blanket, offers a serious threat. DEUCE ACTOR could be dangerous.

8	Tarzan Breeze	60	Fred Palermo 8-1

On the whole SPECTURE CRONY should make the first runner well in advance at its field. HAWKE'S CHOICE figures to be the most classy with BRUISER a roomy possibility.

SIXTH RACE—FUTURITY

4	Crap Gambler	72	M. T. Dubiel 8-1

The top one likes the rail, has early foot and should win. FLIGHT LEADER, if it breaks, will do the forcing with RITZY ANDREW in the money.

SEVENTH RACE—5-16THS MILE

5	Nelcon	50	Forbe Spencer 8-1

ANDORA won its last and was beaten but a scant length in its next previous effort. Off those races I take it to win here, though JOSEPHINE GLEE will be dangerous. SIDE WHEELER should save the show.

Fette Streak Pleases All

By WALTER KILEY

About the nicest thing that's come the way of the Bees this season is Lou Fette's new winning streak of five straight.

There isn't one of Lou's mates who isn't overjoyed that the 31-year-old sophomore is finally getting well deserved breaks.

Those same Bees felt pretty badly the way they were letting Lou down in one game after another, failing to hit for him as he pitched his heart out without complaining. A fellow with less courage and team spirit would have folded.

A year ago he had won 20 games. Casey Stengel figured on him for as many more this year.

But in his first nine games, Fette lost eight and won one, and there was dismay in the ranks.

Bobby Reis

Lou has always been a control pitcher. When he's right, he cuts the corners, putting the ball wherever he wants.

He was just enough off in that bad streak so that rival teams were getting to him.

Then came the dawn, and Fette's full control returned, and now he has lifted five victories in a row, his most recent performance of limiting the Reds to five hits, passing but one, and pulling out a 5-1 win, standing as one of his finest year's achievements.

With the expected return of Mil Shoffner in another two weeks the Bees' pitching problems assume a far less dismal aspect than they did a month ago when both Shoffner and MacFayden were laid up. Bobby Reis was as yet an uncertainty, Dick Errickson was untested, Johnny Lanning and Ira Hutchinson unreliable and Fette unable to win.

MacFayden is back as good as ever.

Making his first Boston start since June 18 when Linus Frey sent him to the hospital with a grazing liner off his pitching hand, Danny held these same Reds to five hits in as many innings, shut them out 1-0.

Bobby Reis gets a further starting chance for the Bees today and "Peaches" Davis goes for the Reds as the teams wind up a four-game series.

NEW YORK, July 28 (AP)—Bill Terry, with his "jints" hitting the skids like everything, is feuding with the newspaper guys again . . . The Ad vertising Club of Newark's has joined the race to raise a national fund to buy a plane for poor Doug Corrigan, who had to go out and fly the Atlantic in a crate . . . Ray Fabiani, the fiddling wrestling promoter, has slapped a $25,000 suit on the 20th Century Sporting Club because he says Promoter Mike Jacobs wouldn't install a cooling system . . . St. Paul has upped the cut on its golf open from $2500 to $7500, and are the pros happy . . . Event starts tomorrow.

Burgess Whitehead has changed his tune and his mind again . . . interviewed in Elizabeth City, N. C., Burgess now says he'll lay off hard work the rest of the season and make a fresh start next year . . . At that, he's doing a pretty good job with a semi-pro team a couple of times a week, and Polo Grounders wish he'd hurry back . . . Don't laugh this off, but Jimmy Braddock may try that long reported comeback . . . Business over at the "store" isn't what it ought to be, and Mike Jacobs needs heavies . . . Here's another fight tip: Lou Ambers is looking better than he ever did in his life.

Minnesota's big woods are full of football players, coaches and athletic directory getting in shape for the coming grind by battling Musselinge and Northern Pike . . . Elmer Layden is among those present, and he's moaning louder than anybody else . . . Terry has retired from the Giants' third-base coaching line probably because it just didn't do much good . . . Those who know Max Bishop say the navy didn't miss by signing him to a three year contract as coach of its diamond forces.

A Star of Yesterday

YESTERDAY'S STAR proved no match for today's when R. Norris Williams, left, who starred on the United States Davis Cup teams in the early days of Bill Tilden's reign, is shown with "Bitsy" Grant, who defeated him in the second round of the annual Seabright tournament. Williams had seen his best days when Tilden was coming up, but always gave the Great One the best matches of his career. He was the only man who ever dared to take Tilden's serve inside of the baseline.

REDSKINS SIGN TEXAN

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP)—The professional fotoball champions, the Redskins, announced today they had signed Irving Gilbreath, former Texas University halfback, to a 1938 contract.

Stengel Chuckles Over B's

By WALTER KILEY

"What a team, these Bees," chuckles Charles Dillon Stengel as they wipe up both ends of a doubleheader with the Reds. "You can't beat this gang for battling."

The twin victory, first since beating the Giants twice on Memorial Day, revived Swarm hopes of shoving up and into the first division.

The double defeat was a severe blow to the Reds, sending them seven and one-half games behind the victorious Pirates, and seriously endangering their chances of ever reaching the league pinnacle.

Wally Berger

Such batters as Wally Berger, Ival Goodman and Ernie Lombardi were powerless to do anything with the offerings of either Danny MacFayden or Lou Fette. The first two went hitless in eight trips, Lombardi, catching only the second game, failed on four batting occasions.

Elbie Fletcher was the fair-haired boy. Put on the spot and ordered to hit to left field, Elbie came through handsomely, his mighty double off the left-field fence proving that he can push them out there if he tries hard enough.

Further, he beat out a bunt, ran riot on the bases, knocked in a couple of runs with timely hits, scored the only and winning marker in the opener, turned in two fine slides and fielded brilliantly.

Maxie West came through with a double play throw from deep left field which has seldom been equalled at the Beehive. With McCormick perched on first base in the fourth inning of the opening game, Catcher Hershberger hit deep to West, who made a fine running catch and in almost the same motion sent a rifle line throw which landed smack in Fletchers glove and doubled an amazed McCormick easily.

Stengel is greatly encouraged with the improvement in throwing of Harl Maggert, who has been relieving the injured West occasionally in left field. Stengel is willing to wager that Maggert can throw home on the one bounce, a feat which would have been too far fetched to consider two months ago.

Cincinnati scribes tell how the home fans are gone mad over those Reds, how they scream and shout through the streets with every Cincinnati victory and go into despair with every defeat. Casualties must have been heavy after the double defeat by the Bees.

■ ■ ■

Johnny "Footsie" Marcum, left-at-home Red Sox pitcher, was in a box seat and had a chance to witness a brand of pitching seldom seen this season in the American League. MacFayden and Fette held the famed Red sluggers to five hits per game, some contrast to the performances being turned in by most of the younger circuit flingers.

Max West

Deb Garms got two doubles in opening game to signal his happiness over the recent arrival of Davis Charles, weight 6½ pounds. The Garms reside down near Wollaston Beach in the summer. They're Texans.

Al Lopez lost none of his wiles while recuperating from a broken thumb. He evidently "stole" the squeeze play signal when Riggs was on third, Pitcher Jim Weaver at bat. For he called for a pitchout from MacFayden and caught Riggs flat-footed with a snap throw to Garms, who touched him out on the baselines.

Piccolo to Run At Rockingham

SALEM, N. H., July 28—R. A. Moore's Piccolo, winner of the $7500-added McLellan Memorial, joined the ranks of thoroughbred stars which will compete in the $5000-added Rockingham Park Handicap at the Old Rock on Saturday, when word was received by Racing Secretary John P. Turner that the five-year-old of Whichone-Picoline will arrive here tomorrow morning for the mile and one-eighth classic.

The Whitney-bred star came from far out of it in the Yonkers Handicap at Empire City last Saturday to run a rousing fourth to Busy K. Teufel and Rex Flag in a mile and one-sixteenth race that was run through a sea of mud, and his trainer, Walter A. Carter, will send him after the top money regardless of weather conditions.

FAVORED ON WEIGHT

The distance of a mile and one-eighth and the weights—106 for Piccolo, to 122 for Teufel—are expected the Whitneybred horse to perfection. The McLellan Memorial Handicap was run a t mile and one-eighth, and Piccolo, with 106 pounds up, won by four lengths and scrambled the route in the gee-whillikens time of 1:50 3-5.

Back of him ran Court Scandal, No Sir, War Minstrel, Wise Prince, Infantry, Go Home, Clocks, Corinto. Back of him also on that occasion was a horse entitled Teufel, recent winner of the $10,000 added Puritan Handicap at Suffolk Downs. Teufel staged a sizzling workout yesterday, will be the top-weighter horse on Saturday, and, rain or shine, will probably go to the post a favorite.

CAME FAST

But going back to the McClellan ried 106 and Teufel 110, taking week, where Piccolo came with a roar in the mile and one-sixit adds up to a pitched battle that may break the track record of 1 49 4-5, set by Sweeping Light five years ago and equelled by Memory Book last year.

Today, John Turner listed as certain starters Teufel, Piccolo, Eastport, Challephen, Peligroso 2nd, First Alarm and Trouper, and he named White Hat, Old Comrade, Gerald and Dunade as possibilities. Traditional feature of the Rockingham summer meeting, the Rockingham handicap will bring to a climax the finest meeting ever held in New England. More than 43 per cent of the favorites have scored to make it the most formful meeting held at a major parimutuel track in five years. The feature race will be backed up by another brilliant card.

Zeke Back!

Takes Over 1st Base

DETROIT, July 28 (AP)—Manager Bucky Harris, of the Washington Senators, reinstated Zeke Bonura today to his first base job.

"He's back to stay," said Harris, "whether he hits, or whether he doesn't, but I think he will."

Bonura hit .245 last year for the White Sox, but has been in a slump since joining the Senators this season. He has been alternating at first base with rookie Jimmy Wasdell.

Elbie Fletcher 'Sees the Light'

Maggert, Too, Improving Fast

By BILL GRIMES

After his Bees had been beaten in the first game of the current series by the Reds, Casey Stengel said, "We looked bad today but we're not that bad, believe me." . . . and now it looks as if "Old Case" knew what of he spoke, for his Bees turned right around and took a double header from Bill McKechnie's charges.

Anytime it requires 11 hours for 90 odd golfers to play two rounds, there's something radically wrong . . . For a guess I'd say it was the calibre of players . . . That's what happened at The Country Club yesterday . . . Eddie Murphy teed off at 8:45 A. M. . . . At 8:12 P. M. Lennie Curran holed out on the 36th green . . . And, it was so dark that Curran was unable to judge his second shot, took a six and missed mated play by a stroke . . .

Elbie Fletcher

Frank McCormick and the Cincinnati Reds had more respect for Harl Maggert's arm this morning than they had yesterday . . . Frank attempted to stretch a single and when he pulled up at second base, he found Rabbit Warstler waiting for him with the ball . . . Maggert crossed up the Reds with a perfect throw . . . There are a few players on the current Bees' roster, who are not so sure of receiving 1939 contracts as Harl Maggert . . . Harl is making the grade because he WANTS to learn baseball and is willing to work . . . Five sets of brothers qualified for the "New Englands" . . . The Heaths, Martins, Adams, Doyles and Leonards.

Is Elbie Fletcher beginning to see the light? . . . He has been hitting better during the past month than at any time since he came up to the National League . . . If he'd copy the Waners and start snapping that ball into left field, Elbie would hit .300 in anybody's league . . . Unless they get a break from the weather man, the Red Sox and the White Sox will play a doubleheader Thanksgiving morning.

Mel Demarais's entry for the New England was returned . . . He was informed that his handicap was not low enough to warrant his playing . . . To my knowledge, there were at least 15 Massachusetts players at The Country Club that Demarais can start two or three up and beat . . . Joe Conaly, the B. U. hockey player, who is caddying at The Country Club, is a real (golf) ball hawk . . . He raced from the first fairway across the rough to the 18th, catching drives hit by Ray Lenehan, without an error.

comers, never failed. Babe gave away millions in his day without a growl, snarl or cuss, and never punched a petitioner of any age.

Unmasking Masked Gal

WITHIN A WEEK THE EQUITY SESSIONS court is scheduled to decide the case of Olivia Finlay vs. the Eastern Racing Assoc. (Suffolk Downs). Miss Finlay was among the many betting customers who held tickets on a horse named Argoan on June 17, 1936, the day that the winner, Masked Gal, was discovered to have been ineligible. But the stewards didn't discover their error until the customers had gone home and the silvery moon was high in the sky. By which time, of course, their payoffs had been made and the backers of Masked Gal had the cash in their wallets.

When they discovered the mistake, the stewards blushed a tomato red, of course, and then issued a manifesto that Masked Gal had been disqualified and that the official winner would be typed on the record as Argoan. And they mumbled something in their beards about snatching back the $1000 purse from Harry Newsteter, Masked Gal's owner, and giving it to H. P. Metcalf, owner of Argoan. But they refused another payoff to the people who had bought win tickets on Argoan's whiskers, saying that one payoff was enough on that race and daily double. Olivia Finlay and a number of other die-hards still hold their stubs and the court will decide whether Suffolk owes another handout on a race that is now two years old.

Adams Tosses Foe In Arena Bout

Paul Adams tossed Ike Goldberg, two straight falls in the feature mat bout at the Arena last night.

The Masked Wonder threw Art Grennan; Abe Finkelstein drew with Sandy McDonald; Hall Dusek drew with Dan Cady; Lee Chang drew with Dick Tanner, and Bill Dolan emerged on top in the battle royal.

Rain last night resulted in the Dilboy Post, V. F. W., amateur boxing show being postponed until tonight. The same card of bouts will be held at Dilboy Field, Somerville.

LONDON, July 28 (INS) — Important preliminary, but formal, negotiations have started for Great Britain and France to make a final settlemen of their defaulted war debts to the United States, it was learned today.

Discussions were initiated several weeks ago between American Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy and British Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain.

They were carried forward to a vital stage this week in secret talks in Paris among American Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, American Ambassador William C. Bullitt, French Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet and French Finance Minister Paul Marchandau.

Chamberlain and British Chancellor of the Exchequer Sir John Simon are keeping in close touch with the developments in Paris where Morgenthau arrived a few days ago on a "summer trip."

CANADA PLANE PARTY SAFE

WHITEHORSE, Y. T., July 28 (Canadian Press) — A message received here today said Premier Mitchell Hepburn and his air-touring party had landed safely at Carcross, Y. T.

Anxiety for the Premier and his party, which included Bernard E. "Sell 'Em Ben" Smith, famous New York broker, mounted as the hours passed and the party was unreported.

The plane took off from here at 5:12 p. m., yesterday, for Juneau, Alaska, about an hour's flight.

Delay in hearing of the landing was caused by lack of communication facilities.

The party was reported awaiting weather reports at Carcross before continuing on to Juneau. The plane encountered bad weather near Skagway and returned to Carcross, 30 miles south of here.

Colonel Giffin Reprimanded

NEW YORK, July 28 (AP)—A general court martial at Governor's Island today reprimanded Lieutenant Colonel Stewart S. Giffin and ordered him reduced 100 files or places on the army promotion list.

Colonel Giffin was tried on charges unbecoming an officer and gentleman.

The charge against Colonel Giffin carried six specifications, all relating to drunkenness and disorderly conduct. He was found innocent on four of the six and on the remaining two the language was tempered to read "wrongfully" instead of "maliciously."

Colonel Arthur S. Cowan, president of the court, announced the verdict and sentence were arrived at by a secret ballot, two-thirds of the court concurring.

On the first count, involving an incident at the Occidental Hotel, Goshen, N. Y., in which Colonel Giffin was alleged to have "maliciously knocked a man's hat off, precipitating a drunken brawl," these words were deleted, and, instead, the charge was phrased "wrongfully took the hat off."

The further charge that as a result of the "brawl" the colonel and his family were ejected from the hotel was deleted in the court-martial findings.

The language was tempered, too, in the sixth specification, which charged originally that the colonel, while intoxicated, went to the home of Harold Gregg, Goshen newspaper publisher, and tried to "crash" a dinner party.

The chief witnesses for the prosecution were Lieut. James O. Smith, Jr., a reserve corps officer, and his wife.
